At 1:20 p.m. on Saturday, July 15, 2017, a trail runner called 911 to report that she had severely injured her knee while exercising in the Miller Ranch Open Space in Edwards, and was unable to walk back to the trailhead. Vail Mountain Rescue Group dispatched two first responders, who drove a UTV all-terrain vehicle to the accident site. After stabilizing the injury and packaging the patient in a rescue litter that was loaded onto the UTV with help of bystanders, the rescuers transported the injured runner to the open space trailhead, where she was transferred to a waiting ambulance and transported to Vail Valley Medical Center. Both rescuers were safely out of the field by 2:45 p.m.
